4. Traffic Forecast Tool Bill Hereth

A very useful interactive map tool is available on the WFRC website. Bill demonstrated how the tool can display observed and forecast values for traffic volume, population, employment, and planned transportation projects. The tool can also show changes in the data from current levels to forecast years. Data from Streetlight is a promising new source of information for active transportation volumes which could be added to this utility in the future.

5. Discussion Item - 2023-2050 RTP Fiscally Constrained Phasing Jory Johner & Julie Bjornstad

Jory reviewed the Regional Transportation Plan (RTP) four-year update process. The Wasatch Choice Vision considers

- 1) Economic Development
- 2) Land Use
- 3) Transportation

Each of these vision elements is evaluated based on the 10 goals adopted by the WFRC Council. All modes are considered in the Plan development

- 1) Vehicles
- 2) Active Transportation
- 3) Transit
- 4) Telecommuting

Based on existing and forecast revenues, the Plan will prioritize projects by Phases 1, 2, and 3 (2032, 2042, and 2050).

RTP needs for the next 30 years exceed available revenues for all modes of transportation.

Highways: Need $25.0B, Revenues $17.7B

Transit: Need $12.0B, Revenues $5.2B
Active: Need $1.1B, Revenues $0.7B

Comments on the draft financially-constrained phasing of the 2023-2050 RTP are due by August 5, 2022.
