Regionally Significant Projects / Housing WFRC Staff	Context Sensitivity: Julie Bjornstad, Senior Transportation Planner at WFRC, opened this item and gave a presentation on context sensitivity in Utah's local and regional planning. WFRC, UDOT, UTA, Governor's office of Planning and Budget, and MAG got together to discuss how we can explore the level of predictability in addressing context sensitivity. Julie presented the Wasatch Choice Great Street-A framework for balancing transportation needs with community context and vision. Julie discussed the Wasatch Choice centers on the Wasatch Choice Interactive Map and how this is an agreed upon Proposed framework: Each element can have a series of tools: <ul style="list-style-type: none">● Principles: overall general statements of guidance● Checklist: things to review or consider● Considerations: how to work through trade-offs● Performance measures: measures the degree to which regional-level streets meet thresholds Initial idea is for four broad types oriented to the street's role in the center: <ul style="list-style-type: none">● Main streets● Major corridors● Hybrid main streets● Supporting streets	None Required

Currently at about a 40% draft and want to have community representatives weigh in on this. If this interests you, please reach out to Julie at julieb@wfr.org or Ted at ted@wfr.org.

2023-2050 RTP Update: Jory Johner, WFRC Manager Long Range Planning Group, gave an update on the 2023-2050 Regional Transportation Plan, the transportation element of the Wasatch Choice Vision. This plan is multimodal, updated every four years, is fiscally constrained, and conforms to air quality standards.

Jory discussed where we've been:

- Explored external forces and policies
- Created a draft preferred scenario
- Created the needs-based phasing for the projects
- Fiscally constrained the plan

What is next in the RTP development timeline:

- Public comment and final adoption

Jory gave an overview of the recently completed 2022 Fall Transportation Workshops across the region. He also covered the extensive stakeholder outreach that happened to the following agencies/landholders/community organizations

- Wasatch Choice Community Advisory Committee
- Resource Agencies
- Larry H. Miller / Daybreak
- Point of the Mountain
- PRI/FRI/SLR
- Rio Tinto
- Salt Lake Community College
- Trails Foundation of Northern Utah/PRATT/Bike Utah
- University of Utah
- Utah Inland Port Authority
- Utahns for Better Transportation (UBET)
- Weber State University
- Western Growth Commission

At the last technical advisory committee meeting, we received 100 roadway comments, 68 transit comments, and 185 active transportation comments. The Long Range Planning Group followed up with communities and stakeholders who provided comments.

Jory then discussed the funding available for the life of this plan and how that breaks down compared to the needs for each mode. The needs for active transportation, roadway, and transit all exceed the expected revenue.

	Next steps include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 2023-2050 RTP and AQ Memorandum #41 – Public Comment period and RTP Documentation • RGC TAC, RGC, and Regional Council Review with a May 25, 2023 adoption • Unified Plan Coordination and Outreach Summer/Fall of 2023 If you have any questions, please reach out to Jory Johner at jjohner@wfrc.org. Guiding Our Growth / ULUI conversation: Ted Knowlton, WFRC Deputy Director, gave a presentation on the effort for a statewide conversation about Utah's future. This effort, Guiding our Growth, is being led by the Governor's Office of Planning and Budget. Ted noted that we have little control on IF we grow, but rather HOW we grow. Goals of this statewide conversation about Utah's future are as follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Utahns weigh-in on how growth should unfold • Utahns better understand growth plans already in place • Establish a list of Big Moves to achieve desired outcomes • Utah communities advance those Big Moves Ted invited the technical advisory committee to participate in the live survey, and to share it with elected and appointed officials. For additional information, please reach out to Ted at ted@wfrc.org.
